

SIERRA REGION NEWS FLASHES

YUBA PASS TO BE OPEN THIS WINTER

That Yuba Pass is to be kept open to traffic this winter is the good word brought to Downieville by Jack Wolff, chairman of the touring bureau of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce. That body has interested itself in the matter and received the information from the State Highway Commission as indicated above.

This will be received with glad acclaim by business people all along the Yuba Pass Highway, for traffic will be directed that way next winter, with the result that stagnation of business will not take place as in previous years as a result of the closing of the Pass by snowstorms.

With the taking over by the State this month of that portion of the Yuba Pass Highway from Downieville to Sattley, the responsibility of keeping the Pass open will fall upon the State, which will assume the responsibility and place equipment in the Pass adequate to accomplish the task.

Heretofore this has not been possible, owing to its being a federal highway, and since the government took no interest in keeping the Pass open it was allowed to become blocked with snow and remain closed all winter.

PLACER COUNTY TAXES ARE SET AT $1.00

AUBURN, Cal., August 31—By cutting the salaries of six elective offices in Placer County approximately $2,000, the Placer County Board of Supervisors has reduced the budget sufficiently to set a county tax rate of $1.00 on the $100 or assessed valuation. This is the lowest rate here in several decades. Last year's rate was $2.05.

A large portion of the saving was effected by the enactment of the Riley-Stewart tax amendment, placing on the state the responsibility for school expenses mandatory under state law.

C. E. CLINCH NAMED NEVADA COUNTY NRA CHAIRMAN

George Creel Makes Appointment To Fill Vacancy. County Support Invited

C. E. Clinch one of the foremost business executives of Grass Valley and widely known in the industrial and political circles of California has accepted the appointment of County Chairman of the National Recovery Administration taking the place left vacant by the death of Stanley Bavier.

The county chairman's duties are not a duplication of the NRA setup through the various chambers of commerce, but rather advisory and supervisory to these organizations. The county unit ties in with the State Chamber of Commerce with William Boucher of the Sacramento district supervisor of this region. The county-wide organization is intended to be an important cog in the NRA machine with authority given to the chairman to contact individuals and firms outside the local NRA and to advise them and to some extent supervise these groups.

Mr. Clinch's announcement is as follows:

TO THE CITIZENS OF TRUCKEE: Have received from Honorable George Creel, NRA Administrator for Western Division, the following telegram:

C. E. Clinch, Grass Valley, Cal. Will you accept appointment as County Chairman NRA to take place of late Stanley Bavier. If so instructions will follow.

George Creel I have decided to accept. The duties are many.

I have already announced through the Grass Valley Morning Union and the Nevada City Nugget my appointment as Supervisor to succeed the (Continued on Back Page)

SALES TAX CHIEF FOR NEVADA CO. VISITS TRUCKEE

Hanlon P. Kerrigan of Marysville, Sales Tax Administrator for the counties of Nevada, Yuba, Sierra, Sutter, Colusa, Glenn, Placer and Butte was in town last Thursday in the interests of the California sales tax.

Mr. Kerrigan stated to a representative of the Sierra Sun that all business establishments who collect the sales tax in the conduct of their business must secure a license before August 31. The chamber of commerce has the blanks on hand and the license is to be remitted direct to the State Board of Equalization.

Mr. Kerrigan will return to Truckee within a short time and address the Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club and will bring with him a deputy who will have charge of this district.

Georgetown Gazette Resumes Publication

The Georgetown Gazette, which was suspended nearly ten years ago, has been reestablished and is being published by H. Berle Thomas, publisher of the Placerville Republican. The publisher states "We have faith in the future of Georgetown and of El Dorado County. We believe, honestly and sincerely, that we are standing on the threshold of one of the greatest periods of expansion and development in modern times."

WILL PROVIDE GOOD ROAD TO FEATHER RIVER REGION

$150,000 Also To Be Spent On Gold Lake Road, Says Congressman Englebright

A telegram was received from Congressman Harry L. Englebright by the Sierra Sun advising that as a result of a conference with the Forest Service and Bureau of Public Roads an appropriation of $125,000 has been made for the Sierra-Hobart Mills-Truckee Road.

This is welcome news to the people of this region as it will provide a good highway between Truckee and the Yuba Pass and Feather River Region and will be the means of bringing many tourists thru this region.

The work of surveying the highway has been done and it is anticipated that work will soon be under way.

An appropriation of $150,000 has also been made for the Gold Lake road.

TRUCKEE RIVER PROJECT APPROVED BY ADMINISTRATION

The public works administration has given its approval to the project for upstream storage on the Truckee River and improvements on the Newlands project amounting to $1,500,000.

The Truckee River project would be a dam at Boca or some other point, costing about $1,000,000.

MRS. NORTUP PASSES AWAY IN SAN JOSE

Mrs. Clark Northup, sister of Mrs. M. S. Rutherford, passed away at her home in San Jose on August 23rd of a heart attack. Mrs. Northup had visited in Truckee many times.

The funeral, which was held on Friday, was conducted by Rev. James Whitaker, a former minister of Truckee and Mrs. Rutherford and son Tom of Reno attended.

Equalization Board Predicts Public Will Accept Sales Tax

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—With promised benefits of the Riley-Stewart tax relief plan soon to become cash-in-hand realities, due to sweeping reductions in property tax rates throughout the State, the State Board of Equalization today predicted public acceptance of the new State sales tax in the near future with abandonment of all attempts to nullify or repeal it.

"When the new local tax rates are announced on September 1, reflecting many millions of dollars in savings to home owners and general property owners, the public will have its first opportunity to weigh the advantages of the Sales Tax against its disadvantages," declared Fred E. Stewart, Member of the Equalization Board.

"Lowered assessed valuations on property, reduced rates of taxation and strict limitation of budget increases will, in my opinion, far more than offset the first irritation and annoyance of the public at being required to pay a sales tax.

TRUCKEE LIONS STAGE LION HUNT AT PORTOLA TUES.

Capture Lion In Portola and Bring It Back to Truckee For Safe Keeping

A good many members of the local Lions Club frequently go deer hunting but as the deer season is two weeks away they decided to practice up on their aim and go Lion hunting.

Several weeks ago at Greenville the Sierra Nevada Council of Lions Clubs presented the Reno Club with a Lion as a reward for the largest attendance at this meeting with the provision that any club that visited the Reno Club with a membership of four or more members could take the Lion to their Den. Two weeks ago Carson City claimed the Lion and had it in their possession one week when Portola called and took it back with them.

The above accounts for the wild desire of the Truckee Den to go Lion hunting and so Tuesday night under the leadership of that peerless Lion hunter Bill Englehart Sr., the Truckee Club set out for the wilds of Portola. Just as the brave hunters reached the outskirts of that beautiful little city a wild roar was heard. Sirens shrieked, fires started, and the Portola Lions had loosed the wild, vicious, man eating Lion. Undaunted our Truckee Lions pushed on and bearded the Lion in his den in the Western Pacific Hotel.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was then held with lots of entertainment and many speeches by the Truckee Den in which they gave the Portola Den a few pointers on Lion hunting.

After the meeting the Lion was placed in his cage and brought back to Truckee where he will remain until claimed by some other Club.

Dr. Bernard and W. B. Gelatt were in Markleeville Sunday to attend the Annual Barbecue. They report a crowd of over 3,000 and a real barbecue.

CCC WILL BUILD SKI TRAILS THRU FOREST

Recognizing the great interest and the participation in Winter Sports throughout the Sierra Region, the U. S. Forest Service has signified a willingness to assist in the construction of winter forest trails that will open the great mountain areas to winter travel.

The growth of the skiing in California in both club and other competitive tournaments, and as an alluring winter sport for all outdoor folks, has led in recent years to movements in various quarters for the construction of ski trails specially built for travel when the snow covers the mountain tops.

Through the activity of the Truckee Ski Club and other like organizations, the State Chamber of Commerce was interested in the movement and were finally successful in getting the Forest Service to meet the demand.

Word was brought back from the last meeting of the State body by C. Edmunds, manager of the Truckee Winter Sports that the Forest Service had agreed to the use of the CCC to assist in clearing trails and in suitable locations erecting shelter huts for winter travelers. Each ski club is expected to appoint a committee or member to go with the crews and lay out the courses.

The Truckee Ski Club is giving consideration to the proposed trails and a committee will be appointed in the near future to contact the proper Forest Service Officials.

C. E. CLINCH ADDRESSES LIONS CLUB WED. NITE

C. E. Clinch, Nevada County NRA Chairman, was the guest of the Lions Club on Wednesday evening and outlined the work of the NRA and asked for the co-operation of this region in his work.

Mrs. H. I. Snider has returned after spending a few days in Reno.

At a recent meeting of the local Public Works Committee of NRA, ways and means of assisting the unemployment situation and helping to build up the town were discussed.

The committee, which was appointed by C. B. White, president of the Chamber of Commerce, consisted of the late Stanley Bavier as chairman, Mrs. E. Guthridge, Mrs. W. F. Wilkie, R. Joseph and C. B. White.

The committee met Sunday, August 6th and addressed a letter to the directors of the Utility District asking that the District inaugurate a Public Works Program consisting of acquiring, consolidating and improving the water systems of the town; build its own office and plant buildings and install and operate its own power plant.

Such a program, the committee state, would give much needed work to most of the unemployed of this region for several weeks and in addition result in permanent employment for several families, besides eventually resulting in improved service and lower rates.

The committee proposed that application be made to the State Public Works Administrator for approval of the work. It being understood that if the undertaking is approved, the government would make a gift of 30 per cent of the cost and loan the balance needed at a low rate of interest over a period of approximately 30 years. To receive approval, the public works undertaken must be self-liquidating.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Utility District the proposal came up for consideration and was unanimously approved in principle. Manager Edmunds stated that such a program would require a bond issue of $100,000. The proposition has been referred to the District Attorney for an opinion on the legal questions involved.

BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENTS CANVASSED IN INTEREST OF NRA

Monday all business establishments of Truckee were canvassed by crews under the direction of Colonel Art Leitch, who is in charge of "Man Power." The crews were composed of Majors C. B. White, E. L. Loynd, Al Fontana, Jas. Melver John Thornton, Frank Gaiennie, C. E. Smith and F. S. Powell.

The canvass resulted in 98 per cent sign up with the remaining 2 per cent held up on account of lack of certificates, which are expected with the next few days. The crews found an almost unanimous willingness and desire to follow the spirit of the codes.

The house to house canvass for consumers pledges will begin on Thursday and will be under the direction of Major General Katie Rossarini. The members of the Wyethia Club will assist in the canvass. At this time the unemployment survey will be made and a check made of all men out of work.

DAZED BY LIFE

Life is moving too fast for us, says Dr. C. H. Mayo, famous surgeon of Rochester, Minn. So the mind gives out before the body does. "We find old people all around us who have been dead for years and don't know it. They don't think any more—their minds have died, although their bodies live on."

Life, to be sure, has speeded up considerably. We move faster physically. We see more, hear more, experience more, have more things to think about. And therefore Dr. Mayo seems to say, we stop thinking. We are overwhelmed mentally, like a child at a three-ring circus for the first time.

But if this is true for grown-ups, surely it needn't be true except for morons. The moron stops learning and thinking at perhaps 10 or 12 years of age. Millions have always done that. But most of us are not morons. And to those whose minds remain awake and open, all the new opportunities for knowledge and experience ought to result in more thought, rather than less.

It may be plainly a matter of nerves and poise. People who are intelligent and also calm are not overwhelmed by speed, crowds and a sense of what is going on in the world. They enjoy it, learn, expand and acquire wisdom as long as they live.

PATIENT SUFFERERS

A curious thing about the popular psychology of these times—people who are the worst off seem to make the least complaint. Sherwood Anderson, the author, reports:

"For months I have been going through the factories and visiting the breadlines of the Middle West. I have yet to find a single man who understands what the President is trying to do. People no longer expect anything of the government for their troubles."

"Not one of the men I talked to in the breadlines blamed the government for their ills. They said, 'I could have done better,' or 'I should have been a success, if only—' and so on. Always laying their troubles on themselves."

Americans did not use to be like this. Is it the apathy of despair? Have they lost their tendency to criticize because they have lost hope?

A newspaper reporter in one of the industrial cities finds a somewhat similar attitude among the homeless men he has studied. Though hungry and cold, they seem curiously lacking in resentment. They do not curse capitalists, or society, or the government. They give the President credit for "trying to pull us out of the blankety-blank mess."

It is those better off, higher up in the scale, who complain, resent and threaten. Our proletariat—for we have one now—is passive and patient. Our upper classes are puzzled and saying little. It is our middle classes—high priced workers, small business men, professional people—who are bitter, frightened and in revolt.

SCIENTIFIC KIDS

Science is taking the place of athletics and movies. If it is not so with the grown-ups, it is with the children, especially the boys. Anyone who hasn't noticed in his own family or neighborhood how the kids love to study and tinker with anything mechanical, may take the word of Charles R. Richards, head of the New York Museum of Science and Industry.

"The operating models and projectoscopes of an industrial museum have become so attractive to boys," he says, "that how to handle the crowds of them has become a serious problem. For children below the mental ages of 13 and 14, the museum of science and industry will always present a fascinating spectacle."

"Our experience seems to indicate the wisdom of separate sections for children, with displays especially adapted for them. This awakened interest is an omen of the intensely scientific aspect which the thought of the next generation will take."

The interest is obvious as regards automobiles, radios and other familiar machinery, but extends to mechanical and scientific things generally, with emphasis on the practical—on things directly related to human use.

Industrial plants in any city might well take a hint, and enlist the young people's interest in their own operations.

SIMPLER HOME-OWNING

A savings and loan authority thinks there ought to be a simpler and easier way to finance homes. He would have mortgage loans spread over a longer period than usual, 15 or 20 or 25 years, with monthly payments equalized as nearly as possible, and the one payment covering interest, principal, taxes and also life insurance if that is taken in connection with the mortgage.

It would make home-owning almost as simple as renting. About the only difference would be the responsibility and the upkeep. These presumably would be compensated by the pride and security of ownership.

Home-owning has been handled very badly, on the whole, in this country, as is shown by the great distress of home-owners during the depression. It should be done better hereafter. The subject is worthy of the best thought of financiers and statesmen.

THE LAND OF BICYCLES

In Denmark the bicyclist always has the right of way. There are no exceptions and no excuses. Automobile drivers who dislike dodging bicycles ought certainly to leave their cars behind when they visit the little land of the Danes. True, most two-wheeled riders there usually hold out a hand to right or left when about to swerve from a straightforward route—so habitually, in fact, that many Danes unconsciously do so even on foot! and not a bad idea at that. But a cyclist may cut in, from either side, at any time, or any street or road.

An excellent highway runs up the east coast of the island of Zealand, from Copenhagen's to Hamlet's Elsinore and the popular sea beach beyond. But it is not open to automobiles on Sundays between the middle of May and the end of summer, except to car-owners who live along it. All summer, bicyclists swarm along that road on the Sabbath; but the mere automobilist must go far inland and take a narrow, winding, and withal poor road, which is usually so crowded with other motorcars that he will probably decide to stay home next time instead of trying to go for a swim. And no doubt it serves him right for owning a car and playing the aristocrat.

The constant motionless sailing through the air of solemn-faced people on bicycles—high-hatted ministers of the Government, haughty ladies in limousine garb, stodgy old ladies from the country, waiters in full dress, irrespective of the hour of the day—is one of the principal sights of Denmark, its most distin-

STERN REALITIES
Editorial from NEW YORK TIMES

Thus far the National Recovery Act has been borne along on a sort of wave of popular enthusiasm. Emotional appeals to the patriotic spirit of America have been multiplied in a thousand ways, and have met with a response reaching Washington like the sound of many waters. Acceptance of the plan and a determination to make it work have been almost universal. But now the time has come to translate impulsive and high-keyed conviction into resolute and patient action. We have been summoned as for war. But it is now evident that the issue of the battle will not be decided by the first shock of attack. A long period of what may be called trench warfare against depression is before the country. This is plainly felt at Washington to be the case. The authorities there perceive that the first flush of national excitement is fading out. Fears are even expressed that NRA is not moving forward as well or as fast as was hoped and expected. All the more reason, then, for preparing the public for a prolonged campaign.

For the steady and dogged work that remains to be done several things are essential. One of them is a full and honest report of the facts. Exaggerated claims and buoyant prophecies are now wholly out of order. Happily, the Government itself seems fully aware of this, and is taking pains to keep the people informed about the actual state of things. The Department of Labor has given out the findings concerning the actual amount of new employment, as ascertained by its expert investigators. These are highly encouraging, so far as they go, though Secretary Perkins, with her customary restraint and love of the precise, does not undertake to magnify the significance of the figures. Along with this inquiry has gone one into the effect of higher prices upon the cost of living. There is no reason why this should be concealed. It was bound to come, and the public is entitled to know that there is official confirmation of the truth which housewives and family providers have already come to know in their private experience. All this lends new point to the demands which Professor Ogburn has made for fuller analyzing and reporting of the effects of the Recovery Act

"Summer Complaint" in Children Can Have Serious Consequences

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

JUNE, July, August, and September are the months that start a great many of our intestinal troubles in children. We call them summer complaints.

Gastro-enteritis, cholera infantum, it is called by many names, all equally bad. Formerly this was one of the greatest scourges of the big cities in the summer. Now the cities have found out how to prevent it to a great extent, and it is seen mostly in small towns and in the country. This illness is essentially a pure food and drink problem.

AUTE indigestion or gastro-enteritis (inflammation of the inner lining of the stomach and bowels) is very general and appears in many degrees of severity. In the mild form of simple diarrhoea and vomiting, the baby, usually under two years of age, starts by being fretful at night, restless and irritable all day with loss of appetite, or a craving appetite and great thirst. There is some fever and a general misery. Others start in suddenly with high fever 102 to 105 degrees F., great prostration, and frequent nausea. Some cases have severe abdominal pain and cramps. It is a very severe and very serious condition and if the baby is not very strong, it will be very difficult to save its life.

WHEN we consider that the intestinal tract is about 26 feet long and that when this poisoning starts, it affects almost the entire tract, we can understand why it is so serious. We see why the child even becomes pale and listless, whines and moans and cares nothing for anything except water. We understand why the condition so often causes death or a prolonged convalescence.

MILK should not be given till recovery is complete. The stomach should be kept empty for 24 hours if possible, and then thin barley water or albumen water should be used in very small quantities. If the condition continues for 24 hours, send for your physician and obey him.

SKIN REQUIRES SPECIAL CARE AS FALL NEARS

By JACQUELINE HUNT

SKINS that are soft and clear and lovely year after year, or even from season to season, are rare indeed. Most complexion at times tend toward oiliness or dryness, or there are pimples, wrinkles or a few gaping, enlarged pores.

MISS HUNT

neglect, the skin is likely to be out of order.

Proper adjustments in the diet, cleanliness, and proper living will do much to keep the skin functioning smoothly again. But for each common skin fault there are corrective cosmetics that have resulted from careful research by cosmetic manufacturers. If you have any of the common skin blemishes you should see what products you can find to aid in overcoming them. If your skin is dry and sensitive, try one of the special tissue creams, with a gentle tonic; if it is rough and tender, without being particularly dry, try a softening, greasiness lotion.

For Oily Skin
For the oily skin with enlarged, clogged pores, special care is needed in the cleansing. Supplement your good soap and water cleansings with astringents and with liquid cleansers occasionally. You will find one of the little patters a help in applying them. There are also astringent, non-oily creams for this type of skin.

I have told you many times about the delightful oils and creams to protect a skin that chaps or sunburns easily. There are creams to refine coarse pores and simple, effective lotions to heal acne while it covers these unattractive blemishes and makes them less embarrassing. Then there are circulation creams to tone and stimulate sallow, yellowish skins.

Not only do you need these products that help you to be dainty and clean and healthy, but you need color if you want to be really striking and lovely. For this purpose there are cosmetics that are purely decorative in purpose. Rouge, lipstick, eyebrow pencil, eye shadow, powder, nail polish, brillianine and even perfume fall into this category. Properly used, they make up the little finishing touches that set you apart from other women. They reflect your mood and your personality and give you life and sparkle.

What is most important about these "decorative" cosmetics, they inspire you to give more careful attention to details that you might otherwise neglect. Lovely, sparkling nails will give you a sense of satisfaction, but they will also remind you to smooth a lotion over your hands to make a lovely background to set off your colorful nails.

Most manufacturers, these practical days, prepare color samples of rouges, lipsticks and powders in test size containers, so you can experiment and find the one that is best before you spend your money for a large amount of the product. And let me remind you to try something different occasionally. Even the best brands of creams and tonics and powder, if used year after year, will cease to be so effective. Basic formulas for cosmetics vary little, but often a different ingredient in another brand will stimulate your skin to new loveliness.

Miss Kirman, who is an enthusiastic air passenger, often scorns the train and automobile for her trips, flying whenever possible. Last year she was greatly thrilled after a trip during the dead of winter, over Lake Tahoe and the adjoining counties, muffled in their blanket of snow in a cabin plane.

Episcopal Chapel News

"All life is an endeavor—shall we endeavor to climb to the higher plain of life out of the lower thing of life," declared the Rev. Paul Little, summer chaplain of the Chapel of the Transfiguration, Lake Tahoe in the closing sermon of the season. "We are emotional in our nature. Too often we talk too much. We are loud, we do not take time enough to meditate. When one bubbles one is shallow when one is still deep. Don't take too much interest in other peoples affairs. Six per cent is enough. The trouble is too many people take ninety nine per cent interest in other peoples' affairs. Hush for a little while and meditate so that the emotions of nature should teach us to be still and know God."

"All about you there are the voices of nature, but thru nature there is that other voice, that still, small voice that potentially speaks to us. "We have our minds and hearts fixed on things material and our Gods out of pleasure and material things and then all at once the crash—then we may have our senses brought back to us and we again hear the small voice to sustain us."

Dr. Little's theme was the voice of nature and another. "You people coming to Lake Tahoe and this beautiful Sierra region enjoy nature and enjoy yourself, but do you really appreciate nature and do you see God in the beauties of nature in the forests, the lakes and the hills?"

In his sermon he dwelt on the winds, the fires, the earthquakes and temptations and said that after one had weathered the storms of life and come thru temptations successfully, one's life blossomed forth afresh and beautiful like the mountainside after a forest fire.

Famous Recipes Of Famous People

BAKED Southern ham with baked Virginia apples is the favorite dish of United States Senator Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia—newspaper publisher and once Virginia's youngest governor. He also is a brother of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the only man who has flown over both the North and South poles.

Here is the recipe for Senator Byrd's famous dish, which calls for a juicy ham baked whole with the exterior fat removed, then thoroughly chilled, and masked with mayonnaise, and with it, chilled baked apples.

The ham is soaked over night, then put into boiling water and simmered until tender, allowing about 30 minutes to the pound of meat. When done, the ham is allowed to stand in the cooking liquor until cool, then taken out and put into a hot oven for about 15 minutes to draw out excess grease. The ham is then chilled until very cold. Just before serving, all excess fat is trimmed off down to the meat, which is put on a large platter and covered all over with thick mayonnaise which has been seasoned generously with mustard. A garnish of halves of stuffed olives and sprigs of parsley is applied. And what a dish it is!

California Forest Fire Fighting Method Attracts Attention Foreign Country

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—(UP)—California methods once more have attracted the favorable attention of a foreign country.

This time it is state forest fire fighting work. In a letter to State Forester M. B. Pratt, A. L. Kessel, conservator of forests, Perth, Australia, said California's system of using light truck units in forest areas was of particular interest inasmuch as it should be especially effective in Australia.

Pratt said he was sending Kessel a complete explanation of California's "pick up" plan of fire fighting.

Engine Symptoms

When the engine pops back thru the carburetor and runs unevenly before stopping, the symptoms indicate "out of gas," according to the Free Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. If the motor stops suddenly without warning, the probable trouble is in the ignition.

Scandal Rumors Shattered

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—(UP)—It didn't look good to the state controller's office, so a claim bill for "two dozen whiskey glasses" was promptly refused payment.

Visions of a possible scandal in state circles were shattered, however, with the receipt of the following letter of explanation from John L. Farley, chief of the state division of fish and game:

"The game breeders working at the Los Serranos game farm are very much inclined toward prohibition, and the whiskey glasses in question were not intended for the use the name would imply.

"These glasses are used for little drinking fountains for young quail."

SUPPRESS DETAILS

In London, when an officer arrests a citizen on a criminal charge, the papers give the news of the arrest, but not the details of the crime. In handling the story in this manner, they do away with the danger of suggesting the commission of a similar crime to susceptible persons.

CALIFORNIA NAMES: ORIGIN AND MEANING

Interest is added to motor touring in California by an understanding of the origin and meaning of picturesque and significant place names with which the state abounds. Explanations listed below are selected from a series of articles by Mrs. Nellie Van de Grift Sanchez, author of "Spanish and Indian Place Names of California." The series has been appearing in Motor Land, published by the California State Automobile Association.

Contra Costa (opposite coast) was so called on account of its original position directly opposite San Francisco. Some of the name's significance was lost when the area directly facing the city became Alameda County.

Carquinez is said to be derived from Karkin, the name of an Indian village.

Martinez was named for the family of Ignacio Martinez, who was commandante at San Francisco from 1822 to 1827.

Corte Madera (wood-cutting place) was so named in reference to the practice of cutting timber there in the early days.

Napa is an Indian word of doubtful origin, said by some authorities to be the name of a tribe, by others to mean harpoon point.

Colusa is derived from Kolu, name of an Indian tribe and former village.

Cosumne is from the name of a tribe who gave the Spanish missionaries much trouble.

Yolo was the name of a tribe and the word is said to mean a place abounding with rushes.

Yuba is said to be derived from a tribe of Maidu Indians named Yu-ba, who lived on the Feather River.

Madera (wood or timber) was so called by the Spaniards on account of its heavy growth of trees.

It is with these realities, as they develop and present themselves in manifold form, that the country must grapple in the weeks that lie ahead. There will be ups and downs of sentiment. Many will be discouraged by absence of the immediate and sweeping success which they look for. But we are convinced that the great majority of the people will press firmly ahead, meeting obstacles as they arise with an undaunted spirit, and constantly devising new methods to overcome unexpected troubles. It is as true of a nation as Matthew Arnold said that it might be of an individual, that "Tasks in hours of insight willed may be in hours of gloom fulfilled."

For this second stage of the recovery plans, upon which we are now entering the right kind of leadership is as necessary as it was for the original conception and for its first impact upon the hearts and consciences of the American people. President Roosevelt has never put forth extravagant assertions or predictions about NRA. He has cautiously spoken of it only as a great and promising experiment. If it partially fails, something else will have to be tried. From this wise attitude of the Commander-in-Chief, it should be easy for him to pass into giving orders to carry on through good report or through ill. Nothing is more important, in the days before us, than for the Washington Administration to avoid every appearance of hysteria or sudden changes of front. For the steady job that now confronts the nation, a steady leader is requisite. He will do his best for the country if he shows it that he is able to retain his composure even in trying circumstances, and that he is not disposed to surprise the public and provoke doubts in the business world by ill-considered and hasty devices, or by a rash use of the extraordinary powers lodged in his hands by Congress.

BUSINESS IS BETTER,
SAYS GOODRICH TIRE
COMPANY OFFICIAL

Further news that American business is climbing back to normal was received here by the Tourist Garage, local Goodrich dealer, with the announcement from F. E. Titus, assistant general manager, and R. J. Loomis, San Francisco district manager, of a profit of $870,577 for the first six months of 1933 ending June 30, together with wage increases in the plants of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, following telegraphic information to this effect just received from Akron, Ohio.

Profit before charges was $3,361,583 while deductions were made for interest, miscellaneous charges and federal taxes totaling $2,491,006.

"A market increase in the demand for the company's products has made necessary practically full operation of Goodrich plants," Loomis wrote the local business man.

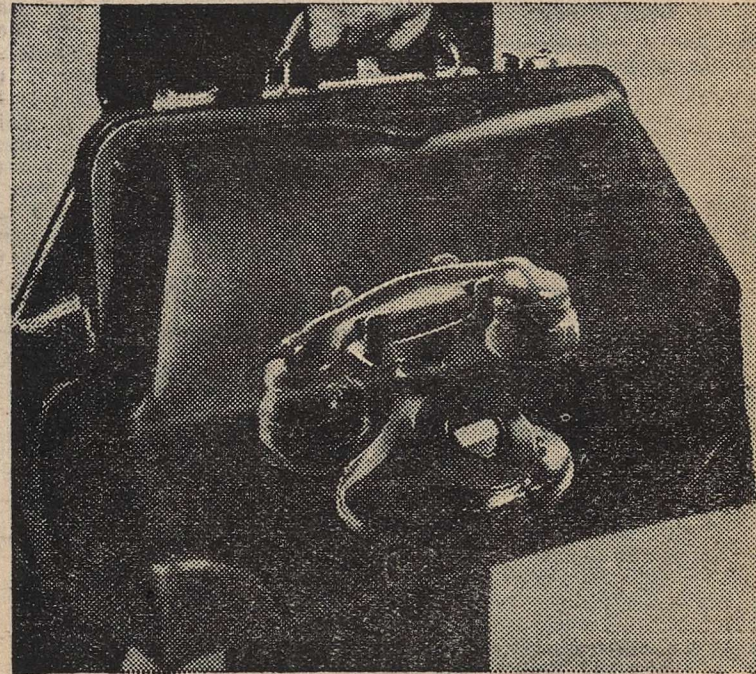

"Our executives feel that business is definitely getting better. Moreover, since the adoption of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's blanket code for industry, Goodrich has made general adjustments upward in the base and hourly rates of its factory personnel. The company is now paying wages and providing working conditions comparable with similar types of work in the industry."

DON'T TAKE DOWN YOUR SIGN
Mr. Business Man!

Sometimes people say that they would advertise if they could afford it, but that their business does not warrant the expenditure of funds for advertising. That's putting the horse behind the cart. Advertising is the horse that draws the cart.

Don't take down your sign because business doesn't happen to be so good as was in boom times. Rather polish up the sign and go after more business.

Don't let up on advertising because customers' dollars are more elusive or more retiring. Advertising is the best stimulant. Experts all say so. Advertising will play a big part in the recovery of business.

Get your advertisement in The Sierra Sun and have one there every week in the year. We will be glad to help you in its preparation.

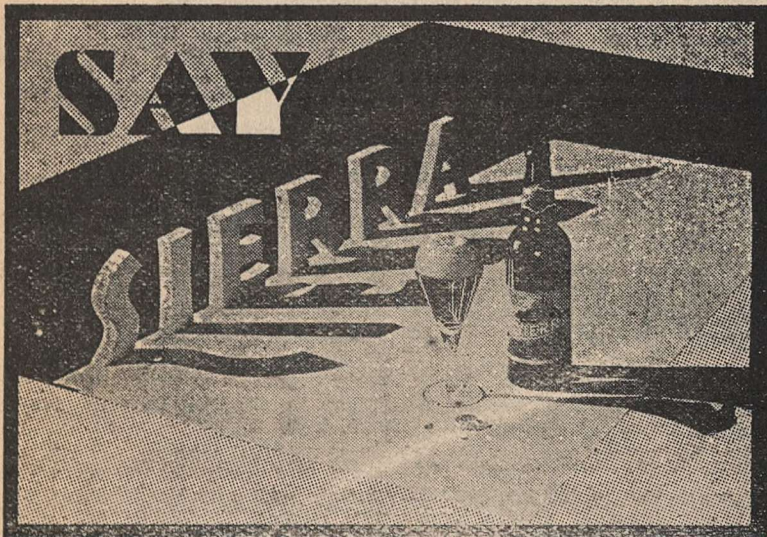

HERE'S SOMETHING TO REMEMBER

Newspaper advertising is without a superior as a medium of reaching customers. A regular visitor every week, the paper comes to the home because it is wanted there and its pages are read and re-read by every member of the family. The advertising it contains doesn't intrude and isn't of an imposing nature. It's not like direct mail advertising that's thrown at the public.

Forest Fire Group In Plea for Caution

Ninety per cent of all the forest mountain brush and field fires in California are man-caused and the present is a time of greatest hazard. This is pointed out by the Stop Forest Fires Committee of California in an appeal for carefulness in handling fire and the use of tobacco and matches by forest visitors, sportsmen, and motorists.

The havoc wrought by careless smokers is graphically brought out in figures compiled by the various national, state and county forestry agencies. These disclose that thirty six per cent of the man-caused fires are attributable to smokers, according to reports received by the California State Automobile Association which is cooperating with the Stop Forest Fires Committee.

There are numerous instances on record where an unextinguished cigarette or cigar or a lighted match thoughtlessly tossed away along the roadside has caused a disastrous conflagration, heavy damage to timber, watershed or crops, and in some instances even loss of life. A plea to the smoker to be sure his tobacco or match is absolutely out before discarding it is voiced by the Committee.

Between 1920 and 1930 one twelfth the total area of the state, or 8,372,000 acres was burned over the estimated damage being $14,424,000. The cost of prevention and suppression was $10,736,000. These figures are cited by the Committee in a plea for the utmost effort on the part of the public to prevent fires. The loss is in many cases of long duration, timber requiring many years to replace. Wild life in all forms is affected.

While hundreds of fires are caused annually by lightning, these are a minor item compared with those resulting from human carelessness. Incendiaries loom up next to smokers as a fire causing agency, being charged with twenty-five per cent of the man-caused fires. Other causes are burning debris miscellaneous, campers, railroad and lumbering.

STATE INDUSTRY WILL COME UNDER RECOVERY CODES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—(UP)—Local state industry is rushing to come in under California Recovery Act codes.

According to John L. Davis, executive secretary of the state division of corporations, at least 50 interior industrial groups will have filed codes by September 15, and 100 by the end of next month.

The Sacramento office of the division is the clearing house for codes of industry in the 32 interior counties.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—(UP)—From now on college romances will have to bloom under threat of a 60-day jail sentence.

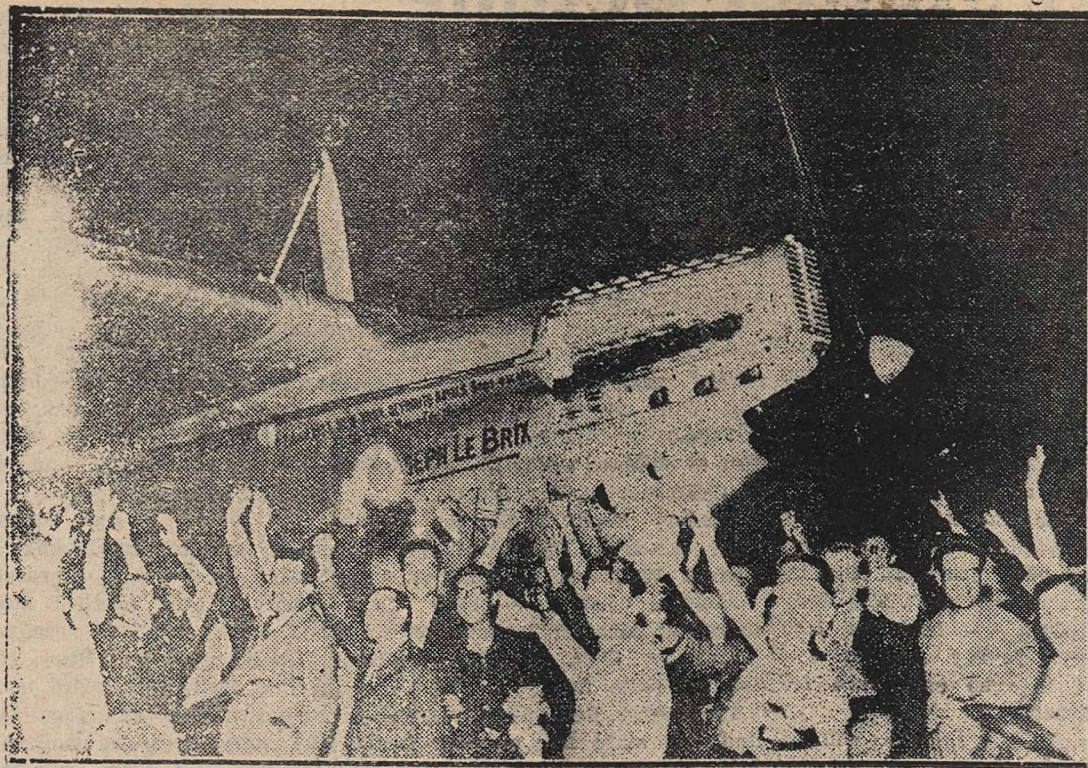

No co-ed would think her romance complete unless she wore the boy friend's fraternity pin—and that's where all the trouble comes in.

STATE GENERAL FUND DEFICIT IS RECENTLY ESTIMATED $42,356,208

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—(UP)—With state revenues still on the decline, the general fund deficit has increased to an estimated $42,356,208, according to State Controller Ray L. Riley.

Previous to this it had been estimated the deficit would not exceed $40,000,000, but a survey of the state's tangled financial situation indicated the larger figure to be correct.

Riley arrived at this increased deficit figure despite a liberal calculation that the sales tax will bring in approximately $85,000,000 for the two years. Other officials estimate the income from this source at considerable less.

Pari-Mutuel Betting Expected to Draw Large Fair Crowds

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—(UP)—With pari-mutuel horse race betting as the major feature, there was every prospect today that attendance records at the state fair will be broken.

The fair opens next Saturday and concludes a week later.

Sixteen pari-mutuel tabulators have been installed, along with the approximate odds board on the inner rail of the race track. The daily racing schedule will begin at 1:30 P. M. daily. Twenty minutes will be allowed between each race for placing of bets.

Rivalling the horse races, will be the nightly horse show. State fair officials announced the entry list is the largest and best in many years. Many entries are from famous eastern stables, among which are polo ponies and stock horses owned by Mrs. Henry B. Phelps of New York, the former Muriel Vanderbilt.

Spectacular fireworks will be another night feature.

Following is the fair program:

Church, Saloon, School No More Under One Roof

FALLON, Nev.—A church, saloon, school and doctor's office, all in the same building, was a combination that existed in Churchill county 48 years ago. State Senator Thomas Dolf recalled recently.

But it didn't last.

In the pioneer days, Churchill county built its only schoolhouse four miles south of where Fallon is now located.

The Seventh Day Adventist minister secured use of the school building for church services. Part of the interior of the building was used for a saloon, and County Physician Beemis used a corner of the building as his office.

Dolf attended a church meeting one evening, when a woman and a prospector, both intoxicated, became quarrelsome and used language which, penetrating the thin partition separating the church from the saloon, did not add to the church services.

The woman made the announcement she had a gun and was prepared to use it.

"Everybody made for the door—including myself," Dolf said. "The preacher said he had never preached so near to hell and never expected to again."

The strange combination of church, school, saloon and county physician's office thereupon was broken up.

Equalization Board Predicts Public Will Accept Sales Tax

separating the purchase price of the article and the tax at the start of the new tax program, as this made for delays and irritation, building up sales resistance and hurting trade.

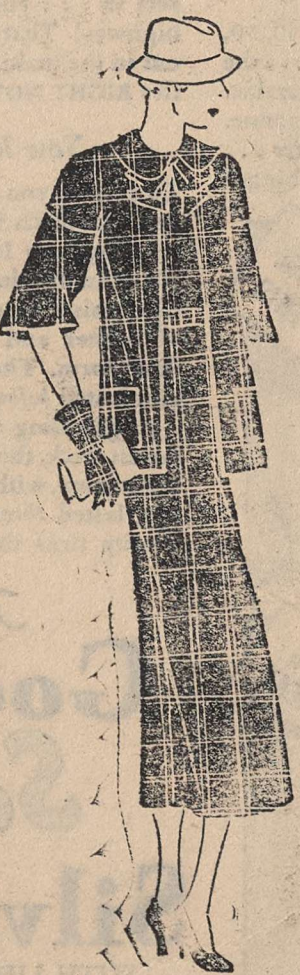

"But the great majority of the merchants are now changing to the 'one price plan,' including the tax in the sales ticket and counting it as part of ordinary business routine. While the State law prohibits merchants from advertising that they absorb the tax, it does not, under any circumstances, prevent the merchant from adding the tax to the purchase price of the article and including it in the general charge."

"As more merchants adopt this procedure and stop building up sales resistance by repeated mention of the tax, I am convinced the sales tax will be accepted by the public cheerfully and willingly to meet the present emergency."

"And as the public comes to realize that attempts to undermine the tax are a direct threat to the State's economic recovery which, if successful, would close hundreds of our schools and plunge both State and private business into a condition of chaos, present ill-considered attempts to repeal or nullify the tax will be quickly abandoned."

"No tax is popular—at least with the fellow who pays it—but this tax, once understood, has fine promise of public acceptance as the best means of meeting a bad situation."

Politically Speaking

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—(UP)—Some call it intestinal fortitude, others backbone—but whatever you name it, that's what the equalization board has finally developed. Lucky it did, too. A few more weeks of shilly-shallying and it would have soon been in hot water. Truth is, the board's handling of new responsibilities—sales tax, equalization—had been indecisive and ineffective. Merchants were howling for rulings, school districts were demanding permission to spend more money, tax dodging and profiteering was rampant.

For weeks it was bedlam. The board seemed bewildered by its sudden leap from comparative obscurity to the rarefied atmosphere of bright light of prominence.

Level-headed Ray Riley, state controller, knew that board must cease procrastination and face facts. So the story goes, he walked in one day and told board members their political future as well as popularity of the Riley-Stewart tax revision plan was at stake. He urged them to make up their minds—no be influenced by this or that group.

Finally, the board found itself. It hired a "spokesman"—able Clem Whitaker—who prepares statements for public consumption and promptly issued a series of hard fisted decisions. The days of indecision are at an end.

Governor Rolph adroitly dropped the sales tax into the lap of Lieutenant Governor Frank Merriam, another potential gubernatorial candidate. "If," the governor suggested, "you want to find out anything on the sales tax, ask Merriam. He lobbied for the tax and put it over in the senate. I opposed it from the start."

The governor's statement was merely another effort to direct sales tax criticism elsewhere. He's getting fed up with being blamed by the man on the street for the unpopular levy.

State Treasurer Charles Johnson is somewhat unhappy these days. And well he might be. Seldom has a potential gubernatorial candidate suffered such tough breaks.

Johnson was made co-defendant in a pair of lawsuits filed by Harry Arend, Sacramento, involving land deals, Arend charged him with fraud and misrepresentation. Newspapers carried the stories and they got quite a play.

But the treasurer is going right ahead with campaign plans. He is encouraged over promises of support.

Clean Crankcase

The car's oil reservoir should be cleaned at least once each season, according to the Free Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. The best way is to remove the lower crankcase pan and scrub it thoroughly with gasoline or distillate. Flushing with kerosene without removing is not recommended. The screen should be given special inspection. If clogged it should be cleaned thoroughly or replaced.

WHAT TO WEAR

YOUR vacation clothing should not sacrifice comfort and health for style, although there is no good reason why they cannot be combined to good advantage. During the heat of the day, wear clothes that are light in both weight and color. Cotton and linen are suggested. Avoid getting chilled at night, and have a sweater handy for use after vigorous exercise, or in the evening. Where and how you spend your vacation will largely determine the kind of clothes to wear.

Clothing may get wet from rain or perspiration, and in drying on the body it draws heat from the body itself. Cotton, linen and silk dry more rapidly, and therefore cool the body more quickly than wool. People who take colds easily should change their underclothing promptly if it gets wet.

All garments should fit the body loosely and not be tight anywhere, especially around the neck or waist. Suspenders are preferable to belts for men, and women should likewise carry the weight of their clothes on their shoulders. In many respects, modern women are more sensible than men in that they are not so likely to wear tight collars, or bands around the abdomen.

Proper footwear is exceedingly important if you expect to do much walking on your vacation. Shoes should neither pinch the foot at any point, nor be so loose as to cause a blister. Heels should be broad and not too high. High heels throw the weight of the body forward on the toes and off proper balance. This may result in backache and other symptoms remote from the feet.

Socks and stockings should, of course, be changed and washed often during the summer months. Tight garters which cause a ring around the leg just above the knee tend to cause varicose veins. By blocking the upward flow of blood with tight garters the veins become dilated and later enlarged and unsightly.

Many people go bare-headed much of the time on their vacation. This practice is quite permissible, except during very hot weather when you may be exposed to the direct rays of the sun. Intense heat on the scalp may cause eye-strain or even sunstroke. A straw hat or other light head covering is a good precaution. It should fit loosely enough to permit the air to circulate around the scalp.

This is the sixth of a series of 12 articles on Vacations and Health. The seventh, on Exercise and Rest, will answer the questions:

1. How long should a person sleep? 2. How much exercise is advisable? 3. When may exercise be dangerous?

Dog Has Money in Bank With Which To Pay Fines

NEW YORK—Mrs. Minnie Fontaine, thirty years old, given a suspended sentence in court on a charge of having her little dog, Frenchy, in the street unmuzzled, was told by Magistrate Casey:

"If you come into court again on this charge, I'll have to impose a fine."

"Oh, that's all right," she replied.

"My dog has money in the bank."

Mrs. Fontaine explained she has no children, but she keeps a small iron bank in her home marked "Frenchy," in which she drops coins, occasionally to provide sweetmeats for the dog.

THE WEEK AT THE CAPITOL

By MELVIN LORD

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., August 31—(UP)—California is asking for approximately $200,000,000 as the state's share of the federal public works program under the National Recovery Act.

The bulk of this, of course, is included in proposed aid for the Great Central Valley water project which calls for expenditures totaling $170,000,000.

The remainder represents requests of state departments for building funds cut out of the budget for reasons of economy. A total of $15,194,888 has been asked or building works at state hospitals and other institutions.

The state will issue no stamps, tokens or coupons to aid in the collection of the 2½ per cent retail sales tax.

After a series of conferences the board of equalization stamped a very emphatic "no" on such a plan, taking the stand it was up to the merchants to collect the tax. The board has no objections to retailers issuing house scrip for collection of fractional taxes.

Incidentally the board charged the circulation of certain referendum petitions against the sales tax law was a "racket" and asked the state bureau of criminal identifications to investigate.

No more trips to eastern conventions by state officials at state expense. Attorney General U. S. Webb has ruled that officials must give proof that all out-of-state trips are for official business before expense claims are paid. And State Controller Ray L. Riley said he was going to ask for that proof every time.

For the first time in more than a year, revenues from the gasoline tax showed an increase in July. During the month the state collected $3,320,232, as compared to $3,093,956 in July, 1932, an increase of 7.3 per cent and highly favorable for the new road building program.

So successful was the pari-mutuel racing program at the San Joaquin fair in Stockton, directors of the state fair have decided to use the same system of $1, $2 and $5 bets on the races. The $1 bets proved particularly popular. Fair officials estimate the betting pool at the state exposition may run as high as $100,000 a day.

Cities and counties and other political subdivisions which plan to ignore the provision of the Riley-Stewart tax plan limiting governmental cost increases to 5 per cent a year, are going to have to answer to the board of equalization. As a start the board refused most of the requests of school districts to exceed the limitation.

IF ONLY American homemakers could view the offerings of the fish market with the imaginative enthusiasm of a French chef, meals in a great many homes along the seashore where all kinds of fish are available the year round—might be less monotonous, less expensive and more nourishing and exciting than they often are.

Clam Bisque
Let your fish dinners begin with a fish appetizer, cocktail or soup. Clam bisque in the first menu will be enjoyed by all who like the flavor of this shellfish. Scrub the shells of three dozen small clams in cold water, then place them in a saucepan with a quart of hot water and cook until the shell opens. Scoop them out as they open and remove the meat from the shells. Chop the meat fine, strain the broth and put it back on the fire with the chopped meat in it. Thicken with a tablespoon of flour to which a tablespoon of butter has been added. Season with pepper and cook slowly for five minutes. Add one-half cup cream and serve at once, each serving garnished with finely chopped parsley.

Salmon Timbales
The salmon timbales (canned salmon) are dressy and delicious. Flake very fine enough salmon to make two cups when flaked. Add two teaspoons lemon juice, a few drops of tabasco, a little salt and one-third cup cream, whipped until stiff. Add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and mix thoroughly. Butter custard cups or timbale molds and fill two-thirds full of the salmon mixture. Set the molds into a pan of hot water, having the water come half way up on the molds. Bake in a moderate oven for twenty to twenty-five minutes. Unmold and serve at once with a rich cream sauce to which chopped parsley has been added or a cucumber-whipped cream sauce. Garnish with green pepper rings and wedges of lemon.

If filet of sole is your choice, put the pieces of fish into a saucepan and cover with white wine. Add a small onion, a shallot and six mushrooms all thinly sliced. Remove the fish from the pan and add one cup of cream and one tablespoon of butter blended with one tablespoon of flour. Simmer slowly for five minutes. Arrange the pieces of fish on a bed of freshly cooked, drained spinach, cover with the sauce and place under a broiler flame until delicately browned.

With their fish the French serve a salad of greens with a savory dressing. Rub a salad bowl with a cut clove of garlic and into it put your shredded one prefers the atmosphere of the and water cross. When ready to dish out, cover with a dressing made from one part wine vinegar, two parts olive oil and mustard, salt and pepper to season.

late Stanley Bavier, whose untimely death will prove a great loss to you locally and a loss to the county in its present emergency. In succeeding him I want you to feel that I shall appreciate at all times your cooperation and respectfully invite suggestions that you have to offer, and wish you to feel that I am at your service.

The Nation is at the present time engaged in a war of depression, and many term it "A Bloodless Revolution." To win it will require 100 per cent cooperation, in order that the Blue Eagle will come out of the battle of depression without a blemish.

I expect to visit you shortly and suggest that you advise the date, hour and place where a meeting could be held in order that we may have a full discussion and listen to any suggestions that you have to offer.

In conclusion, I respectfully invite your support, in order that it will not be necessary for me to use the authority that the office gives me. I am very desirous, and I know you are, that Nevada County shall be as it always has in times of stress, 100 per cent for the Government.
